About MDHS

The Mississippi Department of Human Services (MDHS) serves as a trusted partner in building strong families and communities. Our mission is to empower Mississippians of all ages by meeting immediate needs while promoting long-term stability, independence, and dignity. Through our many divisions and community partnerships, MDHS provides programs and services that form the building blocks to hope.

Building Hope in Mississippi

Everyday Mississippians across the state are busy creating and building their lives. Some may be raising children, caring for loved ones or even searching for work to rebuild after hardship. Whatever the story may be, MDHS exists to extend a hand in those moments.

In 2025, MDHS served 1.9 million Mississippians by providing services that help support household nutrition, protect vulnerable communities and encourage and foster opportunities for advancement. Through these services, MDHS provides a foundation built on hope that empowers families to strive for a better future.

Letter from the Executive Director

This year, MDHS continued its mission to offer tangible help today while building lasting hope for tomorrow. Through compassion, innovation, and partnership, our teams across the state worked tirelessly to strengthen families, support older adults, and empower individuals to reach their full potential. Each service, from child support to elder care, from workforce development to youth rehabilitation, is a building block in creating a foundation of hope that supports every Mississippian.

Together, we are building a Mississippi where every person has the opportunity to thrive.

DIVISION OF

Economic Assistance

The Division of Economic Assistance is one of the most important building blocks for hope in our communities. This division helps families get the support they need for today – while providing them with tools to build hope for tomorrow.

Every day, our Economic Assistance team works with families across Mississippi to make sure basic needs are met and that parents can focus on caring for their children, keeping a home, and preparing for a brighter future. These services don't just give temporary help – they help families grow stronger and more self-sufficient.

Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program

Helping Families Buy Healthy Food

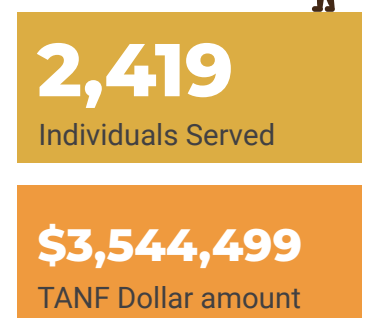

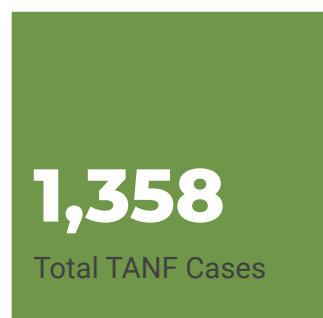

SNAP gives monthly benefits that help low-income families buy the food they need for a healthy life. This can make a big difference for moms, dads, children, seniors, and people with disabilities. SNAP benefits are used at many grocery stores, markets, and stores across Mississippi. SNAP helps families put nutritious food on the table – a powerful block of hope for children to grow strong and learn well.

Temporary Assistance for Needy Families

Support for Families with Children

The Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program supports parents and caregivers with cash assistance help to pay for basics like food, shelter, and clothing.
